Rocklane Properties LLP wants to rezone 96 acres north of Rocklane Road (Main Street in the city limits) between Combs and Five Points roads on Greenwood's east side.

A 25-acre tract on the site's southwest corner would stay zoned for commercial use.

A company has shown interest in a use for the land that would require industrial zoning but has no specific site plan.

The planning commission will hear the request May 12, and the city council will make the final decision.

Below, a map shows the site planned for rezoning (pictured in dark blue), the area of the site that would remain commercial (pictured in light blue) and two housing developments near the site, Trotters Pointe apartments and Homecoming at University Park subdivision.
