

HOW YOUR SCHOOL FARED

Public Law 22, is Indiana's comprehensive accountability system for K-12 education, was passed into law in 1999 to establish educational reform and accountability statewide.

Schools are placed into five categories based upon improvement and performance data from the ISTEP-Plus assessments: exemplary progress, commendable progress, academic progress, academic watch and academic probation.

The category placements are based on the percentage of students who pass the ISTEP-Plus and the improvement in the percentage of students passing the ISTEP-Plus over a three-year period.

Schools that don't meet adequate yearly progress under the federal No Child Left Behind Act for two consecutive years cannot place higher than the academic progress category.

Schools on academic probation face a series of steps that are designed to provide the additional support needed to improve academic achievement. Although the consequences of academic probation become more serious the longer schools stay in the category, schools do not lose funding because of the law.
