

Bacon brother gets 'Queer Eye' makeover

What do you get when you combine the Fab 5 with a man best known for Six Degrees?

If you guessed "Ocean's Eleven" you'd be wrong. It's Kevin Bacon on "Queer Eye for the Straight Guy" (10 p.m., Bravo). The "Footloose" star arrives with his brother and bandmate, Michael.

PASADENA, Calif. Comedian's career goes game-show route

Comic Howie Mandel's first reaction when offered the chance to be host of a game show was to wonder whether it would be death for his career.

"If I'm a game show host, will someone buy a ticket to see me do standup?" he wondered. "If I'm a game show host, will I get an offer to do a dramatic role in a movie?"

His worries so far have proven unfounded, so Mandel was happily promoting NBC's "Deal or No Deal" on Sunday. The show, on which contestants can win a million dollars but also leave with one dollar if they make a bad bet, will return to NBC's schedule in March.

"Deal or No Deal" did well in the ratings during a one-week run in December, although rivals said it faced little competition against reruns shortly before Christmas.

but didn't appear to accept it, disappointing the audience.

At the 2004 show, Madonna accepted a career award from Britney Spears and thanked French fans for two decades of support.

Shakira shouted "I love France!" in accepting the award for best international song, "La Tortura." She charmed French rock veteran and aging sex symbol Johnny Hallyday, who praised her successful melange of sex and rock 'n' roll.

Bob Geldof praised the French for their "good taste" in granting him an honorary award for his organization of the Live 8 concerts in July for fighting world poverty.

The show, organized by the NRJ radio station, grants awards for French and international stars.

LONDON Model's lawyers, police discussing interview

Supermodel Kate Moss will speak to British police investigating reports of cocaine use, but no timetable has been set for her interview by officers, her spokesman said.

Moss, 31, lost valuable contracts with H&M, Burberry and Chanel after the Daily Mirror in September published pictures of her apparently using cocaine in a west London music studio where her then-boyfriend, musician Pete Doherty, was recording.

The model's spokesman, Stuart Higgins, said Saturday that discussions have been conducted between police and the model's lawyers during the past two weeks. "Kate has made it absolutely clear all along that she will cooperate," he said in a statement.

Designer rubbed some the wrong way CALENDAR

LOS ANGELES Was it playfully outrageous, or just plain offensive?

Live from the red carpet at the 63rd annual Golden Globes, E! correspondent Isaac Mizrahi groped Scarlett Johansson's breast, looked down Teri Hatcher's dress, asked Eva Longoria about her pubic hair and otherwise caught celebrities off-guard.

The openly gay fashion designer didn't mean to offend anyone, E! Networks President and CEO Ted Harbert said last week.

In fact, Mizrahi was just what the network ordered. He's already been assigned to carpet duty at the Academy Awards on March 5.

"I've hired Isaac because I felt the red carpet work on television, not just on E!, had become predictable, staid and frankly boring. What I wanted is someone who would bring surprise," Harbert said.

But whether the staid Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences will take kindly to a repeat of Mizrahi's Golden Globes behavior on its own red carpet is another question entirely.

"I have no idea what plans E! has on Oscar night. If they're suggesting they would do something similar on our red carpet, we would have some good discussions with them," academy spokesman John Pavlik said.

E! has not received any official complaints from any of the actresses involved in Mizrahi's Golden Globes appearance, and no apologies have been issued, Harbert said.

However, Mizrahi's comment to Charlize Theron about her Oscar-winning role as a "scary dyke with bad teeth" in 2004's "Monster" elicited a formal complaint from the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation.

Harbert responded with a statement: "While E! Networks does not generally condone the use of that word, we are totally confident that Isaac is the last person on Earth who could be accused of even the slightest degree of homophobia."

GLAAD spokesman Damon Romine said E! agreed to edit the word out of future airings of Mizrahi's encounter with Theron.

Mizrahi, who has his own talk show on the women-friendly cable channel Oxygen, questioned a stream of actresses on the Golden Globes carpet about everything from what they were wearing — or not wearing — underneath their gowns to personal grooming habits.

He asked a purse-less Natalie Portman, 24, what she would do if she needed a cell phone, credit card or condom. Portman laughed.

He tugged on Hatcher's bronze halter to look for a hidden speech. "He pulled down my dress!" she said.

Mizrahi asked fellow "Desperate Housewives" star Eva Longoria what her "hair was like down there."

"I'm sorry, I can't help myself," Mizrahi said, when called on his comments by commentators Ryan Seacrest and Giuliana DePandi.

Fascinated by Johansson's tight red Valentino dress, Mizrahi squeezed her breast, twice.

"What's going on?" she demanded.

Harbert said of Mizrahi's actions, "As a fashion designer, he pokes and prods people's dresses every day."
