"Cemetery Lady" by Donna Lee Adams is one of the many works of art on display through Feb. 10 at the Christel DeHaan Fine Arts Center Gallery in Indianapolis.

Non-toxic printing method on display

Leading intaglio artists from around the world will be featured in Contemporary Printmaking 2006, an international invitational exhibition running through Feb. 10 at the University of Indianapolis' Christel DeHaan Fine Arts Center Gallery, 1400 E. Hanna Ave.

With nearly 30 works by 10 artists, the exhibition highlights the use of non-toxic techniques that eliminate the need for dangerous nitric acid to etch metal printing plates.

The artists include Friedhard Kiekeben of the University of Chester in England and Australian-born Keith Howard of the Rochester Institute of Technology in New York, who have revitalized the art of printmaking with their use and teaching of non-toxic techniques.

The German-born Kiekeben's 80-piece installation "Flow," created specially for display in Indianapolis, will occupy an entire wall of the gallery. He will install the work Monday and present a guest lecture at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Room 115 of the DeHaan center, following the 6 p.m. artist reception in the gallery. Howard, a native of Australia, is exhibiting four large prints.

The exhibition was organized by Donna Lee Adams, assistant professor of art and design at the University of Indianapolis, who has studied with Howard and Kiekeben. She founded the university's own non-toxic printmaking studio in 2001, at which time it was one of just a handful in the United States.

Adams and local artists Ginny Taylor Rosner and Cynthia Blasingham are featured along with nationally and internationally known printmakers Bernice Cross, Elizabeth Dove, Erin Holscher, Indrani Nayar-Gall and David Jay Reed.

All events are free.

Movie producer to participate in Q&A

Generation X filmmaker, producer and author Kevin Smith will make a rare appearance at 8 p.m. Feb. 2 at the Hilbert Circle Theatre for a unique lecture and open forum question and answer format titled "Silent Bob Speaks." Content is not suitable for children.

Smith started as an independent film producer in 1994 when his first production, "Clerks," earned critical acclaim and awards at the Sundance and Cannes film festivals and became a major commercial success.

During the past decade, films such as "MallRats," "Chasing Amy," the controversial and satirical "Dogma" and "Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back" have continued Smith's legacy as a creative filmmaker and producer who has become a pop icon and voice for his generation.

In addition to this five-film "Jersey Trilogy" of cult-classics, he explored romantic territory with "Jersey Girl" starring Ben Affleck, George Carlin, Jennifer Lopez and Liv Tyler. He was executive producer of "Good Will Hunting." His next film project will be "Clerks 2: Passion of the Clerks."

Tickets range from $15 to $75 each and may be purchased by contacting the Hilbert Circle Theatre Box Office at 639-4300.

Festival to celebrate Black History month

The annual Art & Soul in the Artsgarden festival, which celebrates African-American art and artists, will feature 18 free performances in conjunction with Black History Month in February.

This year's festival commemorates Art & Soul's first 10 years and includes performances featuring a diverse mix of music, storytelling and dance programs alongside special exhibits, all in the Indianapolis Artsgarden. The Artsgarden is located above the intersection of Washington and Illinois streets in Indianapolis.

Kicking off the community celebration on Feb. 1 will be the Cotton Club Cabaret Revue. This six-piece African-American club-style band will fill the Artsgarden with hits from the '30s, '40s and '50s.

Highlights throughout the month of February include The Counts, one of the country's original "Doo Wop" groups, the Metropolitan Youth Orchestra, a 13-piece string ensemble, and the Eastern Star Church Gospel Choir and Praise Dancers, a unique combination of spiritual singing, dancing and rhythm.

For more details on Art & Soul events at the Artsgarden or throughout the city, visit www.indyarts.org or call 631-3301.

Musical tells rags-to-riches tale of singers

The Phoenix Theatre of Indianapolis will produce the Indiana premiere of "From My Hometown" on the theater's main stage from Feb. 2 to March 5.

The musical review, conceived by Lee Summers and written by Summers, Ty Stephens and Herbert Rawlings Jr., follows three aspiring young African-American rhythm-and-blues singers on a journey from their respective hometown musical traditions in Philadelphia, Detroit, and Memphis to auditions at New York City's famed Apollo Theater, and beyond, to success as a musical group.

Performances: 7 p.m. Thursdays; 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays; and 2 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets: $29 for those 25 and older; $15 for those 24 and younger. During CheapSeats week, Feb. 2 to 5 all seats are $15 (no double or additional discounts). To purchase tickets call 635-7529.
