Colts make offer to backup safety

The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS

The Indianapolis Colts offered backup safety Jerome Sapp a one-year tender worth $721,600 on Friday. Sapp's agent, Scott Smith, confirmed the move late Friday. Sapp was to become a restricted free agent when the market opened today. He can still negotiate with other teams, but the Colts could match another team's offer. The move was the latest in Indy's effort to retain its own free agents. In the past two weeks, the Colts kept receiver Reggie Wayne and defensive lineman Raheem Brock off the unrestricted market by signing them to long-term deals; they also re-signed starting middle linebacker Gary Brackett to a four-year deal, preventing him from becoming a restricted free agent. The Colts had previously offered one-year tenders to Pro Bowl linebacker Cato June ($1.55 million) and sacks leader Robert Mathis ($2.069 million). They also offered low one-year tenders to backup receiver Aaron Moorehead, backup lineman Makoa Freitas and gave league minimum deals to starting guard Ryan Lilja and tight end Ben Utecht.

Four prominent players were expected to hit the open market: Colts career rushing leader Edgerrin James; former Pro Bowl kicker Mike Vanderjagt, the franchise's scoring leader; starting linebacker David Thornton and defensive tackle Larry Triplett, who has been a key piece in the Colts' defensive line rotation. Team president Bill Polian has said he believes there's a 50-50 chance the team can retain James now that the salary cap has risen from $94.5 million to $102 million. But Polian acknowledged Thursday that it would be difficult for the Colts to keep both Thornton and James.

on 9-for-24 shooting for Indiana. Johnson added 12 points, and Jeff Foster had 12 rebounds as the Pacers avoided a third straight loss. West had 20 points, Desmond Mason and Kirk Snyder each scored 16 and Speedy Claxton added 11 for the Hornets, who lost their fifth straight game to match their longest losing streak of the season. Two days after playing before a standing-room crowd in their return to New Orleans, the Hornets played before 18,506 fans at the Ford Center, a larger crowd by 762 but not a sellout. They had little to cheer about early as the Hornets trailed most of the first half, mostly a result of 10 Indiana offensive rebounds that led to 14 points. Indiana extended its eight-point halftime lead to 60-50 on a tip-in by Scot Pollard. The Hornets then reeled off a 12-0 run that included consecutive dunks by P.J. Brown and Snyder that got the crowd involved. Back-to-back jumpers by West pushed New Orleans into the lead for the first time since early in the first quarter. Soon after, the game got heated when Mason and Jackson were each called for technical fouls for a confrontation after Johnson ran over Paul and was called for a personal foul with 5:12 left in the third quarter.

Later in the third, Indiana rookie Danny Granger gestured toward the Hornets as he walked off the floor after being smacked in the face attempting to follow Jamaal Tinsley's miss. The Pacers took a one-point lead into the fourth quarter and quickly expanded it to five before the Hornets scored six straight points to go up 80-79 on Aaron Williams' putback. Neither team hit a field goal for a span of 4 minutes until Stojakovic whirled past Paul for a layup that put Indiana up 87-83 with 4:55 left. West converted a three-point play and a basket to give New Orleans a 90-89 lead before Stojakovic's game-winner. Claxton missed a jumper and was blocked by Foster on the Hornets' next two possessions.

having the floor exercise first could set the tone for having a good meet. "And we were successful in doing that." Center Grove's strength in the floor exercise came from freshman Katelyn Fernandes and junior Megan Roller, who both scored a 9.7, and senior Elaine Maurer, who scored a 9.625. But senior Angela Blankenship was the most consistent across all events, winning the all-around with a score of 37.75. Blankenship edged Fernandes by 0.075 for first-place in all-around. Blankenship was nervous about a new skill she recently added to her floor exercise routine. She had practiced her double back-tuck all week, trying to improve her technique. The extra work paid off, as Blankenship scored a 9.55 on her floor routine. She wasn't able to practice the move early in the season because of a knee injury. "I did the double-back at the beginning of the season, but because of my knee, I held off," Blankenship said. "At practice, I was kind of nervous.

"I was not sure of my landing, but I was still confident." Howe was impressed with Blankenship's tumbling pass, which set the tone for the Trojans' meet. He also complimented her recent performance. "Having her at midseason form is tremendously important," he said. Fernandes won the vault with a score of 9.825. "We were on tonight," Howe said. "The girls can take this experience and realize that we have the ability to achieve those kinds of scores. "And even with the high score, the girls know that we can do better at state."
