The Associated Press

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif.
Former President Ford was undergoing treatment for pneumonia Monday at the same facility where he was briefly hospitalized a month ago, his chief of staff said. He was said to be doing well.

Ford, 92, was admitted Saturday to Eisenhower Medical Center near his home in Rancho Mirage in Southern California, Penny Circle said.

"Based on his age, it is prudent for his initial course of treatment — IV antibiotics — to be done at the hospital," Circle said.

"He's doing very well," she said. Hospital spokeswoman Elizabeth Wholihan referred inquiries to Circle, who said in a statement that there would be no further comment until a news release is issued today.

southwestern Marion County and about 20 minutes from Greenwood. But he is following advice from his father: Always have a backup plan, he said.

Another job will come along, just like another car or girl will always be right behind the first, he said.

Bishop doesn't lose sleep over what his yearly review will say if he works slower by using a crane and a hoist, instead of throwing his back out lifting a part, he said.

His bosses already have a term for how he works. If employees should be able to put out 300 parts in a shift and a half, it's two Travis shifts. He just nods in agreement.

"I work smarter, not harder, and I'm still here," he said.

Bishop is one of four people his age who work at the plant. Most of the men are older, with families and mortgages.

He often comes home with a sore body, and the machines can be deafeningly loud at work. But Bishop said none of that really bothers him.

What does bother him is how bored he gets sometimes at home. His hobby is riding his dirt bike, but cold, muddy weather doesn't allow him to do that. Plus, the landscape is too flat in Indiana, he said.

But even that doesn't bother him too much. He spends time with friends on his weekends off, but he spends most of his week sleeping and going to work.

He could have time for a girlfriend but chooses not to have one, he said. He also could move into his own place and out of his grandparents' home, but he's never done laundry or dishes and doesn't really want to start now, he said.

The benefit of being able to save much of the money he earns is also nice, Bishop said, although he doesn't care much about that either.

"Money's nice, but more money (means) more problems," he said.

Bishop doesn't really know what comes next. He's considered taking classes at Ivy Tech Community College but doesn't really like the idea of tests and finals.

He'd like to be able to show off his truck at truck shows and go skydiving in the near future. His plan is to stay at the plant and see what happens next, he said.

they forced open a locked door, Lutz said.

The Edinburg Coach store is likely an especially tempting target because of quick access to U.S. 31 and Interstate 65.

"This (access) is good for the consumers but is also good for the burglars," Lutz said.

Police do not want to say why they believe the burglary at 3:30 a.m. Saturday is connected with other incidents, including a break-in at the Talbots store in Columbus less than 10 minutes later. But detectives have found evidence that links the burglary to others, Lutz said.

He plans to work with Crime Stoppers to try and find the burglars, and Coach is offering a $10,000 reward for information that leads to the arrest and conviction of anyone related to the break-ins.

Anyone with information or who may have seen the burglary in progress is asked to call Edinburg police at (812) 526-2638 or Lutz directly at (812) 526-3501.

'Brokeback' king of hill

'Housewives,' 'Lost' win TV awards; Cash biopic actors honored

By DAVID GERMAIN
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.

The cowboy romance "Brokeback Mountain" led the Golden Globes on Monday with four prizes, including best dramatic film and the directing honor for Ang Lee.

It was a triumphant night for films dealing with homosexuality and transsexuality. Along with the victories for "Brokeback Mountain," acting honors went to Felicity Huffman in a gender-bending role as a man preparing for sex-change surgery in "Transamerica" and Philip Seymour Hoffman as gay author Truman Capote in "Capote."

"I know as actors our job is usually to shed our skins, but I think as people our job is to become who we really are, and so I would like to salute the men and women who brave ostracism, alienation and a life lived on the margins to become who they really are," Huffman said.

The Johnny Cash biography "Walk the Line" won the Globe for best musical or comedy film and earned acting honors for stars Joaquin Phoenix and Reese Witherspoon.

Director Lee's "Brokeback Mountain," the story of two rugged Western family men (Heath Ledger and Jake Gyllenhaal) concealing their affair, has emerged as a front-runner for the Oscars, which occasionally have handed out top acting prizes for performers in homosexual or gender-bending roles but have never given the best-picture Oscar to a gay-themed film.

Oscar nominations come out Jan. 31, with the awards presented March 5.

"Brokeback Mountain" also won for best screenplay and song, "A Love That Will Never Grow Old."

Phoenix and Witherspoon won for best actor and actress in a movie musical or comedy for the biopic that follows country legend Cash's career and his long courtship with the love of his life, June Carter.

The Globe audience clapped along to Cash's song "I Walk the Line" as Phoenix took the stage. "Who would ever have thought that I would win in the comedy or musical category?" said Phoenix, poking fun at his image for dark, brooding roles. "Not expected."

Phoenix, who did his own singing in the film, thanked "John and June for sharing their life with all of us."

"This film is really important to me," said Witherspoon, who offers a spirited performance and fine singing as Carter. "It's about where I grew up, it's about the music I grew up listening to, so it's very meaningful."

George Clooney, who was among the directing nominees for "Good Night, and Good Luck," won the supporting-actor Globe for the oil-industry thriller "Syriana" and Rachel Weisz earned the supporting-actress prize for the murder thriller "The Constant Gardener." "Syriana" spins a convoluted story of multiple characters caught up in a web of deceit, greed, corruption and power-brokering over Middle Eastern oil supplies. Clooney plays a fiercely devoted CIA undercover agent who comes to question his country's actions in the region.

Clooney thanked writer-director Stephen Gaghan for a movie "that asks a lot of difficult questions."

There are similar corporate undertones to "The Constant Gardener," in which Weisz plays a humanitarian-aid worker whose husband (Ralph Fiennes) is drawn into a dogged investigation of business interests connected to her murder.

"I share this with Ralph Fiennes," said Weisz. "One couldn't ask for a more magical, a more magical, committed actor."

"Brokeback Mountain" won the screenplay award for Larry McMurtry and Diana Ossana. McMurtry thanked his constant companion during the lonely process of writing.

"Most heartfelt. I thank my typewriter. My typewriter is a Hermes 3000, surely one of the noblest instruments of European genius," McMurtry said.

The Palestinian film "Paradise Now," a dark tale of two Arab friends tapped to carry out a suicide bombing in Israel, won the prize for foreign-language film.

Television winners included Geena Davis for best drama series actress as the U.S. president in "Commander in Chief," Hugh Laurie for drama series actor as a cranky, pill-popping doctor in "House," Steve Carell for best comedy series actor as an incompetent boss in "The Office," Jonathan Rhys Meyers for miniseries or movie actor as Elvis Presley in "Elvis," and S. Epatha Merkerson for miniseries or movie actress as a boarding house proprietor who takes in an outcast teen in "Lackawanna Blues."

"This is really wonderful for a fledgling little show like ours," said

Davis, who added that a little girl coming into the Globes stopped her to say, "Because of you I want to be president some day."

"Well, that didn't actually happen," Davis joked. "But it could have."

Mary-Louise Parker of "Weeds" beat out the four lead actresses of "Desperate Housewives" for best actress in a comedy series. But "Desperate Housewives" did win for best musical or comedy series.

The Globes are awarded by the relatively small Hollywood Foreign Press Association, which has about 80 members, compared with the 5,800 film professionals eligible to vote for the Oscars.
