BRIEFS

LOCAL

JOHNSON COUNTY

County native gets chance to chat up President Bush

When someone didn't show up Tuesday for President Gerald Ford's funeral at the Washington National Cathedral, Johnson County native Marie Cooper filled the seat.

Cooper, who coordinated much of the event, sat behind Betty Ford so an empty seat would not be seen on television, she said in an e-mail.

And while President Bush waited for Betty Ford to arrive so he could greet her, Cooper waited with him and chatted.

"I've never had a president of the United States wish me Happy New Year before," she said.

Cooper grew up in Johnson County and is a 1965 graduate of Clark Township High School.

WOMEN'S SEMINAR

January 16, 2007 • 3 p.m. • Bay Window, Greenwood, IN

Please join us and bring a friend. Seminar presented by Heather Dulle from Protective.

Women today are smarter, more confident investors:

- 42% of women surveyed say they're more knowledgeable about investing than they were even five years ago.
- 64% feel more knowledgeable because they are working with a financial advisor.
- 55% have invested for retirement.
- 70% say that the more money they have, the better they feel about themselves.

But there is still progress to be made - women lack understanding of investment vehicles:

- 80% wish they had learned more about investing growing up.
- 60% do not understand how a mutual fund works.
- Only 35% consider themselves very or somewhat knowledgeable about investing.

Financial advisors give women a confidence boost:

- 65% are more knowledgeable about investing.
- 65% are more confident about investing.
- 60% are more confident about having enough money for the future.

Bottom line?

Women need to take a more active role in investing, and they agree that there are decided benefits to working with a financial advisor. They not only feel like more successful investors, they generally are.
