Time for work, hype

Colts approach fortnight the same as one week

By JASON MARTIN
 DAILY JOURNAL SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

INDIANAPOLIS
 This week has been filled with the regular game preparations for the Indianapolis Colts, even though there's no opponent on the schedule until Feb. 4. Though they have extra time to prepare to meet the Chicago Bears in Super Bowl XLI, the Colts are going about their business as usual.

"We're not treating this like a bye week," linebacker Rocky Boiman said. "We're going to treat it like we have a game this Sunday and get ready to go."

"We just happen to have another week to get ready."

Colts coach Tony Dungy decided to stick to his normal practice schedule during the dead week of practice before the team leaves for Miami.

As Dungy hoped, the players enjoyed the calm and focus brought by the repetition of their usual routine.

"Especially getting the game plan in and looking at them on tape, (making the Super Bowl) is sinking in a little more," tight end Dallas Clark said.

Last week, Dungy said three days of practice were sufficient to get ready for the AFC Championship Game and to safeguard against being over-prepared.

This week, however, the Colts have taken the tactic that there's no such thing as too much preparation for a Super Bowl.

"We'll have two full weeks of work, so there are no excuses," center Jeff Saturday said. "We want to

MORWICK IN MIAMI

Exposure could put Indy area in positive light

Are you ready for some football? Well, too bad. The game is the last item on the Super Bowl agenda. A whole lot has to happen before the Colts and Bears tee it up eight days from now.

WE'VE GOT YOU COVERED

Daily Journal sports editor Rick Morwick is packing his bags and heading to Miami to bring you all the hype and hoopla that is the Super Bowl. Look for his daily dispatches starting Tuesday.

Redundant story lines, splashy commercials, hours and hours of talking heads talking up the matchups — it's all part of the package.

Even the halftime show and the buildup to it share center stage with the actual game.

Overkill? You bet. But in a tortured way, it's what makes the Super Bowl a big deal.

Between now and the evening of Feb. 4, Indianapolis and Chicago will be co-centers of the sports universe.

Money can't buy that kind of free, enduring exposure.

And for Indianapolis, the spotlight is especially beneficial. It illuminates the city as something more than the amateur sports

Emery Moorehead says blood trumps team loyalty — barely.

Moorehead won a Super Bowl ring as a tight end for the 1985 Chicago Bears. More than two decades later, son Aaron Moorehead will seek his own ring when his Indianapolis Colts face the Bears on Feb. 4 in Miami.

"I'm pulling for my son," said Emery, a Chicago-area real estate agent. "I want him to win a Super Bowl. For him to have a Super Bowl ring and for me to have one, that's pretty rare."

"My heart's with the Bears, but I'm sticking with the Colts."

Aaron Moorehead, however, questioned his father's allegiances.

"Don't believe him," he said. "I think he's undecided right now. I've seen a couple of things he's done in Chicago and a couple of things he's done in Indy, and I would definitely say he's playing both sides of the fence."

The younger Moorehead described his family story line as "wild."

"You can't ask for more of a Hollywood story," he said. "It's nuts. But I'm enjoying it, the family's enjoying it. My dad's enjoying

Cubs come back to slip past Artesians

By GREG SEITER
 DAILY JOURNAL SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

Cubs 47, Artesians 46

Persistence paid off for Franklin Community High School Friday night.

The Grizzly Cubs spent most of the evening playing catch-up to visiting Martinsville; but in the game's closing seconds, the Artesians found themselves trying to keep pace.

Franklin won its third consecutive game of the season by defeating Martinsville 47-46.

While trailing by nine points with five minutes remaining, the Grizzly Cubs (6-7) slowly began to chip away at the Artesians' lead with an aggressive defense that resulted in multiple Martinsville (2-13) turnovers.

Senior Adrian Moss, after struggling to find his shooting touch throughout the contest, brought Franklin within four points of the lead at the 1:54 mark with a steal and layup.

Senior guard Spenser Adams hit one of two free-throw attempts on Martinsville's next possession, but Moss answered with another steal and a layup to make the Franklin deficit one point.

The score remained unchanged until Moss hit one of two free-throw attempts with 33 seconds left to tie the score at 45.

Adams hit one of two free-throw attempts for the Artesians at the other end, but

Junior Will Conoley had 12 points and eight rebounds in Franklin's win against Martinsville.

Trojans play well but fall to Wildcats

By MATTHEW GLENESK

INDIANAPOLIS

Sometimes the opposition is just better than you.

On Friday night, Center Grove girls basketball team played better than it had in the past two weeks, coach Joe Lentz said. But it wasn't enough against Class 4A No. 8-ranked Lawrence North as the visiting Trojans lost 50-44.

"I was pretty pleased with our effort," Lentz said. "All in all, (Lawrence North) played really well. They played the best we've seen them play, and we've seen them several times."

Both teams struggled from the floor: Center Grove (13-5 overall, 2-3 in the Metropolitan Interscholastic Conference) shot 33 percent
