Tie helps CG gymnasts recover lost confidence

Megan Roller

WINTER SPORTS DIARY

For the past week and a half, the entire gymnastics team has been thinking about one thing: redeeming ourselves. After a tough conference loss, we need to get back on track.

We started our mission Thursday at Columbus North. Going into the meet, we knew it was going to be a challenge. The Bull Dogs were ranked eighth in the state poll, we were fourth.

But we have learned many times that rankings mean nothing, especially in a sport where one bad performance has the potential to lose the meet for the team.

We made a valiant effort at Columbus North against their vastly underrated team. In the end, we tied them at 110.075 points. Yes, tied. I have never tied as a team in my 16 years in the sport, but I guess there is a first time for everything.

Our performances were fairly solid but still with a few bobbles and falls. I think that, if anything, the meet served as a confidence-builder. I know that tying is not a win, but our team score was much higher than the previous week. After losing the Metropolitan Interscholastic Conference meet, our confidence as a team was shot. Without confidence, it is difficult to perform well in the sport.

Today, weather permitting, we have a home meet against Carmel. The Greyhounds beat us in the conference championships this year, so this is a big meet, to say the least. We know that it is our chance to prove ourselves as a team and also gain back some of our coveted confidence that we have lost during the past two weeks.

We have a challenging road ahead, but we have faith that our abilities and determination will prevail.

Megan Roller is a senior on the Center Grove High School gymnastics team. Her Winter Sports Diary entries appear each week in the Daily Journal.

FC's Swain earns HCAC honor

Franklin College guard Courtney Swain, who averaged 22 points per game and shot 62.5 percent from the floor in the Grizzlies' two women's basketball contests last week, was named the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference's Player of the Week on Monday.

The junior tied her career-high scoring mark for a single game with 26 points in a 69-67 home loss to Transylvania University on Wednesday.
