

DAILY JOURNAL

dailyjournal.net

FRIDAY, JULY 23, 2010

Johnson County, Indiana

75 cents

WEATHER

Today
Skies: Partly sunny
Temps: High 97; low 74

MAP, PAGE A10

ON THE WEB

Join us on Facebook, Twitter

Keep up with the news and happenings in Johnson County communities through the Daily Journal's Facebook and Twitter pages.

The offerings are just another in a long line of features the Daily Journal has added throughout the years to reach readers in new ways and to interact with them.

facebook.com/dailyjournalnews

twitter.com/dailyjournalnet

WEB EXTRAS

Get the early edition

For a sneak preview of what stories reporters are working on, sign up for the Daily Journal e-mail news update.

The daily e-mail keeps you up-to-date about what is going on in Franklin, the Center Grove area, Greenwood and central Indiana.

We will alert you to breaking news, tell you about stories we are planning and let you in on what is going on in the newsroom.

You can subscribe by sending an e-mail to newsupdate@dailyjournal.net. Put "subscribe" in the subject line.

Check out our photos

Visit the slideshow section of dailyjournal.net to see photos from local events.

See for yourself

Want more news? Visit the Web Extra section of dailyjournal.net for valuable stories, information and documents we can't fit in the paper. Click the "Etc." tab and select "Web Extras."

Recent additions include Indiana Court of Appeals ruling on the annexation battle between Bargersville and Greenwood and a letter from Judge Cynthia Emkes, who is a semifinalist for an upcoming vacancy on the Indiana Supreme Court.

DEATHS

Franklin

Dorothy Jean Clark, 86
Michael William Harlow, 21
Anita June Hughes, 90
Wilma J. Watson, 79

Greenwood

Helen Louise Dilley, 81

Indianapolis

Henry P. Robertson, 63

Morgantown

Matthew R. Smith, 24

INDEX

Accent.....A6-A8
Classifieds.....B3-B10
Comics.....A9
Editorials.....A4
Obituaries.....A5
Police, fire.....A3
Sports.....B1-B2
Southside.....A3
TV listings.....A8
Weather.....A10

CALL US

Main switchboard

736-7101

Delivery: 736-2777,

(888) 736-7101

Advertising: 736-2700

News tips: 736-2712

6 01442 20050 0

Mother pleads guilty in death

Franklin woman faces prison after 10-year-old son's morphine overdose

JUSTUS-BUCK

By SARAH MICHALOS
DAILY JOURNAL STAFF WRITER
smichalos@dailyjournal.net

A Franklin woman faces up to 20 years in prison after her son took morphine prescribed for her and later died.

Roberta Justus-Buck, 44, pleaded guilty Thursday to two counts of neglect of a dependent, one count a Class B felony and the other a Class D felony. She will be sentenced in September.

Her 10-year-old son, Travis "T.J." Buck, was found dead in the family's squalid mobile home in October 2008.

The boy, his sister, mother and grandfather shared the home, which was filled with 4-to-6-foot-high piles of trash, stacks of clothing and rotting food.

The children were in charge of preparing their own meals, getting ready for school on their own and counting out their own medications.

T.J. Buck died of a large overdose of morphine, which he had been ingesting for an unknown period of time, police said.

Justus-Buck pleaded guilty to two neglect charges, one for each of her children.

She originally faced three charges, but one of the charges was merged with the others as part of a plea agreement with the Johnson County Prosecutor's Office.

The plea agreement also says that the sentences for each charge will run concurrently, or at the same time. Justus-Buck faces up to 20 years in

(SEE DEATH, BACK PAGE)

EAT YOUR HEART OUT

Top: Several vendors are offering funnel cakes at the fair. Above: Corndogs are available at the fairgrounds. Bottom Right: Polish sausage, onions and peppers can be seen cooking on a grill. Vendors also sold jumbo tenderloins, slices of pizza and fried Twinkies.

Once-a-year treat not diet killer

By ANNIE GOELLER
DAILY JOURNAL STAFF WRITER
agoeller@dailyjournal.net

Fair-goer Sarah Carroll doesn't count calories when she indulges herself in a chocolate shake and beaver tail, her favorite fair foods.

The Johnson County fair is only one week a year, so the Franklin resident tries to enjoy those special treats while she can.

"It's something we don't get any other time of the year," Carroll said.

When Karen Jordan and her family come from Indianapolis to show cattle at the fair, she worries about the calories they consume from their fair favorite, pork chops, but after the fair is over.

They bring some food from home, but they also treat themselves to the vendor booths that surround them every day for a week. This year, they enjoyed their fair favorite three times, she said.

Local dietitians say it's OK to treat yourself during the county fair, even if you are counting calories and trying to eat healthy.

But the key is to limit the splurging to one elephant ear or pork tenderloin.

"Everything is OK in moderation, but the problem is, we don't do moderation well," said Lynn Bruner, a clinical dietitian at Johnson Memorial Hospital.

One of the best tips: Split your fair treats with friends and family.

(SEE TREAT, BACK PAGE)

NOT EXACTLY HEALTH FOOD

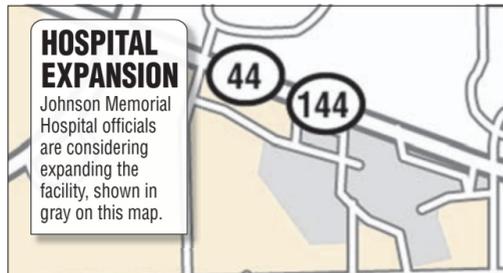

Here is a closer look at the calories and fat in some of your favorite fair foods:

Corn dog 375 calories, 21 grams of fat	Foot-long hot dog and bun 470 calories, 26 grams of fat	Fried Twinkie 420 calories, 20 grams of fat
Turkey leg 1,136 calories, 54 grams of fat	Funnel cake 760 calories, 44 grams of fat	Fried Snickers 444 calories, 29 grams of fat
Bag of in-shell peanuts 340 calories, 26 grams of fat	One slice pepperoni pizza 794 calories, 35 grams of fat	Caramel apple 298 calories, 1 gram of fat
Soft pretzel 340 calories, 2 grams of fat	Hamburger 440 calories, 20 grams of fat	SOURCE: Lynn Bruner, Johnson Memorial Hospital clinical dietitian

IMAGE COURTESY METRO CREATIVE GRAPHICS

Hospital to address drainage issue before expanding

HOSPITAL EXPANSION

Johnson Memorial Hospital officials are considering expanding the facility, shown in gray on this map.

STAFF GRAPHIC

By ANNIE GOELLER
DAILY JOURNAL STAFF WRITER
agoeller@dailyjournal.net

Hospital officials are preparing for a future expansion at Johnson Memorial Hospital.

But before anything can be built, the county and the hospital have to find a way to resolve drainage issues south of the hospital, said Bill Oakes, the hospital's director of business development.

No detailed plans are available yet for an expansion, and the project is in the beginning stages of discussions, Oakes said.

Hospital officials don't want to discuss any details of a possible expansion until those details, such as drainage issues, are worked out in case the project doesn't happen, hospital president and chief executive officer Larry Heydon said.

"Right now, it would be premature to comment on an expansion project that may or may not be on the books," Heydon said.

One major detail officials need to figure out is how to stop water from draining from the north side of the hospital campus south to homes and other properties, Oakes said.

The hospital property isn't having drainage problems because any issues that could cause flooding were fixed shortly after the 2008 flood, when water flowed into part of the hospital building. But in a recent storm, county officials noticed flooded areas south of the hospital, Oakes said.

Hospital officials are working with

(SEE ISSUE, BACK PAGE)

Funnel cloud damage limited

CG area barn roof torn off during fast-moving storm

By JASON MICHAEL WHITE
DAILY JOURNAL STAFF WRITER
jwhite@dailyjournal.net

Peggy Surface was talking on the phone and putting away groceries when she looked out the kitchen window and saw a funnel cloud spinning in the yard beside her house.

The funnel cloud had blown through her cornfield, peeled off the roof of her pole barn and touched down briefly in the yard before twirling back up into the sky.

"It was long but skinny. I saw it on the ground just as it was going up again," said Surface, who lives southwest of Honey Creek and Smokey Row roads. "It came out of nowhere."

The funnel cloud appeared quickly enough that warning sirens didn't sound until after a resident spotted the twirling wind near Smokey Row Road and State Road 135 about 2:20 p.m. Thursday, said Forrest "Tug" Sutton, director of Johnson County Emergency Management.

Johnson County wasn't under any tornado or storm watches or warnings. Police officers and firefighters spotted the same funnel cloud headed east along Tracy Road, he said.

The funnel cloud was off the ground by 2:30 p.m., and by 2:45 p.m., the storm system that produced the funnel cloud was headed toward Shelby County.

(SEE FUNNEL, BACK PAGE)

SUBMITTED PHOTO

A funnel cloud was spotted near Shadowood neighborhood east of State Road 135 around 2:20 p.m. Thursday. No one was injured.